The context

- The Waterloo Human Services Collaborative Group has been established to assist with engagement, planning and coordinated responses to address the current and future human services needs of the Waterloo community.
- There are no additional funds for projects.
- The Group has drafted an Action Plan.
- Previous consultations have informed the development of the plan, this includes the Counterpoint Impact Report, which had input from the Aboriginal community.
- The Group will operate for as long as community engagement is required to address the current and future needs of the community.
